

Volunteer Become Involved Make a Difference

NATIONAL MUSEUM of the
UNITED STATES NAVY

The National Museum of the United States Navy needs volunteers to help share the museum's artifacts and the mission of the U.S. Navy with visitors.

There are many ways to volunteer and enrich your knowledge of naval history.

Opportunities Include:

- Honor Flight Host
- Visitor Services
- Docent
- Research

Volunteers will cheerfully engage with the public to provide all generations of visitors with a memorable experience. Through lectures, programs, and training classes volunteers will learn about our exhibits and background information about naval history in order to enrich their understanding of the material. Volunteers are essential in conveying valuable information about the museum's exhibitions, activities, services and more.

The schedule is flexible and can be tailored to your availability. Volunteers are welcome to support the museum as often as they are able.

If you are looking for a volunteer role that allows you to meet people from across the U.S. Navy and around the world, this is for you!
